Naughty Fabric

New York City-based artist, Jessica Lichtenstein believes that art should ultimately entertain and she achieves the same with her furniture collection. Inspired by the sexualised images of women characters in magna comics, she draws her point across to explore themes of power, women's representation, fetishism, objectification in an ironic and cheerful manner. As part of her collection, antique chairs, sofa and divans are overhauled, re-painted and re-upholstered with her signature highly sexual patterns. The viewer is challenged to confront his/her views on sexuality presented in a setting that deserves more than a second look.
