

Three translucent, elongated glass sculptures are suspended from thin, vertical wires. The sculptures have a smooth, glossy finish and a warm, amber or light brown hue. They are arranged in a slightly staggered, vertical line, with the top one being the most prominent. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.

NEW GLASS WORK

Ann Gardner

New Glass Work

Light is the constant element for my work in glass.

This body of work is my response to the changing colors of light throughout the day—morning to evening. It is my attempt to capture the subtle yet dynamic layers and reflections of this transition.

The background of the image features four pearlescent, teardrop-shaped objects, possibly made of glass or polished stone, hanging from thin, dark wires against a plain, light-colored wall. The objects are arranged in a loose cluster, with one at the top left, one in the middle right, one on the left side, and one at the bottom center. They have a smooth, glossy surface that reflects light, giving them a soft, iridescent glow.
