PHILIP GOVEDARE: UNDER THE SKY

June 26th – August 17th

Reception Saturday July 14th, 4-6pm

His new body of work, Under The Sky, expands Govedare's excavation of human-altered landscapes, atomizing agricultural fields, quarries, and stormy horizons into imaginary scenes. Distantly removed from the earth, as though viewed from a departing airplane, the slightly abstracted perspectives register as cross-sections of overlapping impressions and practices on the land. Roads and waterways jut into adjacent fields of expansive, dust-swept greens and chalky limestone formations. The angular, morphing components within Govedare's paintings cohere together as the incalculable sum of the human and natural forces acting upon our earth.

"My paintings are not based on actual images, but rather a composite of places I have seen and experienced over time. They combine aspects of observation, memory, and imagination. My imagery is not preconceived but found through the process of painting. The outcome of my process is always unexpected, and therefore revelatory."
— Philip Govedare

Philip Govedare earned his BFA from San Francisco Art Institute and his MFA from Tyler School of Art/Temple University in Philadelphia, and he taught as a professor of art at the University of Washington from 2007 to 2023.
