My Eyes Needs Beauty | Personal Space

"In My Eyes Need Beauty I use my camera to create lush, large-scale floral depictions. Influenced by my contemplative practices, this series was born during the time of COVID and in the weeks when the West was blanketed with forest fire smoke. Homebound and restless, I found strength and optimism through the healing power of flowers, vivid color, and meditative movement. I merge the masculine elements of my camera, with the feminine sensibility of motion and blur, to create images that push the boundary between reality and abstraction, elevating common flowers to lush, impressionistic compositions. Although born out of concern for the modern world, this work is intended to bring us all back to the extraordinary strength of nature and the revolutionary act of creating beauty out of pain." - Deb Achak

In Personal Space bouquets of radiant, baroque flowers appear as though suspended in motion, pushing into the picture plane like a memory coming to you in the quiet moments of an afternoon. Achak's compositions flirt between clear representation and otherworldly abstraction, evoking crystalline details of a dream that lose their shape once awakened. Composed and captured underwater, the photographs have an impressionistic blur that couples the quietude of a still life with the passion of an action shot. Achak exposes the complex beauty tucked underneath our conscious awareness. She invites us in to take a long, pensive look and get on with our day, feeling inexplicable awe for our own personal awakenings.
